

I recommend László Kupai, a talented young basketball player born in 2006, to your university. As a basketball coach, I had the honor of getting to know László at competitions throughout Europe and during a stint in Italy.

László is a remarkable individual who embodies humility, dedication and unwavering focus on his goals. He not only strives to improve himself on the court, but also demonstrates exceptional character. One of the most striking moments was when he spontaneously gifted a traditional Hungarian dessert to each member of the team. It was a simple but profound gesture that also reflected his kindness and thoughtfulness.

László as an athlete has impressive basketball skills, excellent technique, tactical awareness and strong team spirit. His work ethic is unmatched, consistently striving to deliver his best while lifting those around him.

I am confident that László will bring the same level of determination, focus, and integrity to his university as he does to his game and interactions with others. He has all the qualities to excel both academically and athletically.
